THREE HELD IN CATTLE THEFT.

Three men whom officers said had plied cattle thieving activity in Bexar and five nearby counties were under arrest Tuesday. Officers recovered 22 head of stolen cattle.
Under arrest were Paul Klare, 24,
address given as 307 South Cherry street; Charles Allred, 23, of 240
Nelson street, and Delfridge Kelley, 16.
Taken before Justice of the Peace
Bat Corrigan, the men were placed under $2500 bond each on joint complaints charging cattle thefts. The complaints were signed by Deputy Frank Matthews.
Ranch owners in Bexar, Guadalupe, Comal, Kendall, Kerr and Medina counties were victims of the gang, deputies said. The trio began their career of rustling August 23,
leaving a pasture near Medina City,
and using a trailer attached to an automobile to haul cattle stolen during the night, the deputies added.
Owner of the pasture tipped off Bexar deputies his land had been leased to three men who were bringing cattle to the pasture at night.
The men, he claimed, were mysterious in their actions.
Deputies Vernon Schneider, Matthews, Joe Dominguez, E. E. Winston and O. E. Kilburn, aided by J.
E. Hodges of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association, investigated.
Matthews and Schneider arrested Klare as he drove in the pasture with several cows. Allred and Kelley were apprehended after a chase on a nearby road. Two pistols were found in their car, the deputies said.
Named in the complaints as victims of the thefts were Mrs. W. H.
Schodler and G. W. Miller, who have ranches near Helotes.—San Antonio Light.

SHIPPING ACTIVE.

Twenty-seven cars of corn were billed out of the local depot for the week ending Wednesday of this week. Twenty-three of these were loaded out at Hondo and four at Seventy-seven bales of cotton were shipped over the same period. This brought cotton shipments up to 424

bales for the season.
One car of cotton seed also went out.
Five cars constituted the in-coming car-lot shipments, these being one car of automobiles and four cars of gasoline. This latter item would indicate that no matter what the weather nor how long Highway 173 is delayed Hondo people are going places.

Fifty Centuries of Experience

Why does our Constitution restrict the powers it grants our government?
Because human nature never is perfect, we must protect ourselves
against its weaknesses.
To provide this safeguard was the great aim of the authors of our Constitution. By their experience in colonial government, by their trials under royal despotism and by their study of the great lessons of history, they learned that human nature could not resist the temptation to become all powerful. They knew this led to tyranny and despotism.
They knew this was a weakness of human nature and that human nature changes but slightly in thousands of years. They knew these weaknesses wrecked most governments.
For this reason our Constitution divides our government into three separate branches—Congress, the President and the Courts—restricts the powers granted to each branch and makes these branches independent of each other.
Concerning this, Washington said,
"The necessity of reciprocal checks
in the exercise of political power,

by dividing and distributing it into different depositories, and constituing each the guardian of the public weal against invasions by others,

has been evinced by experiments ancient and modern, some of them in our country and under our own eyes.
To preserve them must be as necessary as to institute them."

Under this principle of our Constitution, no one branch of our government is all powerful. And by maintaining this principle, we prevent despotism.

MRS. TOM McCLAUGHERTY.

"Now the Laborer's task is o'er,
Now the Battle Day is past.
Now the Voyager at last
Lands upon the farther shore
Father in Thy gracious keeping Leave we now Thy servant sleeping."

Pamela Melinda McClaugherty,
daughter of David W. and Virginia
Bennett, was born March 29, 1862, near San Antonio, Texas. She moved to Guadalupe County with her parents when about six years old. She was married to Thomas McClaugherty on April 12, 1882, and to this union were born three children, two of whom survive. One son died at Hondo, Texas, May 22, 1904.

With her husband and children she moved to Medina County in January 1900. She was a member of the Methodist church for 60 years and was active in its work up to the time of her death.

Her husband departed this life on July 10, 1928. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jno. A. Horger of this place, and a son, Walter T. Mc-Clagherty, of Yancey, and three granddaughters, Leora Horger, Mary Jane and Aileen McClaugherty;
three sisters, Mrs. Almira McClaugherty of San Antonio, Mrs. Ella B.
Walker of Los Angeles, California,
and Mrs. E. G. Garwood of Corpus Christi, Texas, and one brother, Harper E. Bennett, of L. S. Angeles, California, and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. McClaugherty fell asleep the morning of August 27, 1937, at Medina Hospital, at which place she had been carried two weeks before for treatment.

Her funeral was held Sunday afternoon, August 29, from the Hondo Methodist church, the services being conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. S.
Highsmith, assisted by Rev. M. Williamson of Paint Rock and Rev. P.
E. Lancaster of San Antonio, who were former pastors, and Rev. Fuller of Yancey.

The pall-bearers were Roland
Chancey, J. G. Newton, Selby Woods,
Chas. Monkhous, Henry Merriman
and Orneneth Fly.

MRS. GEORGE BOHMFALK.

Mrs. Mary Bohmfalk, nee Oefinger, was a daughter of Johannes and Ursula Oefinger, born on December 21, 1862, at Quibi. She was christened and confirmed in the Lutheran church. Later she joined the Methodist church at New Fountain, and remained a faithful member all her life. She was also a member of the Ladies' Missionary Society of New Fountain.

On February 21st, 1880, she was joined in matrimony to George Bohmfolk of New Fountain. They lived together fifty-seven years, celebrating the golden anniversary of their marriage seven years ago, Feb.
1930. Eleven children, five boys and six girls, were born to this union. Of these, two boys, George and Fritz,
and one girl, Ida, died in infancy,
and one daughter, Lena, wife of Emil Fuos, died in 1912 at the age of 29 years.

On Feb. 12 of this year Mrs.
Bohmfolk suffered a stroke from which she only partially recovered.
Then on Wednesday of last week she was again stricken while visiting her sister, Mrs. Louis Decker. She was taken to Hondo for medical care, but despite all that could be done for her,
she gradually sank lower and lower until death overtook her at 2:30 Monday afternoon, August 30, 1937,
at the home of her daughter, Mrs.
Alfred Brucks. She had attained the venerable age of 74 years, 8 months and 9 days.

Deceased is survived by her aged husband; three sons, John, Louis and Ervin Bohmfalk; four daughters,
Mrs. Willie Faseler, Mrs. Ernest Hartman, Mrs. John Britsch and ters, Mrs. Louis Decker and Mrs. Ed.

Blackaller; 21 grandchildren and 8
great grandchildren. A host of others near and dear mourn her passing.

Funeral services were held in the Hogger funeral home Tuesday afternoon and interment took place at New Fountain. Reverends C. F.

has gone to her reward.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and friends.

"THAT SAVING GRACE".

By Clayton Rand.

There is a lot of bitterness in the country just now. Many men have soured on their leaders and hard feelings prevail.
There is something greater than
being a Republican or a Democrat, a Dirty Dealer or a New Dealer, and that is being a good American citizen.
There is something greater than
politics and that's being patriotic. Parties run their course.
Isms soon pass as somebody cooks up a new fad or freak to fool the people.
Old Marse Henry Watterson
was wont to refer to "THAT SAVING GRACE OF COMMON SENSE IN THE AMERICAN
PEOPLE". That may save us.

REGIMENTATION KILLS PRIDE?

"Real American citizens do not wish to be regimented on model farms, or in neatly arranged flats and apartments as if they were a pack of rabbits.
"Dyed-in-the-wool Americans would rather live in a tin hut down by the railroad tracks than to be encensed in a barracks-like dwelling,
the very completeness and detached coldness of which would sweep away
the last vestiges of personality and individuality."
Commenting on the above quotation, the Seio, Oregon, Tribune says:
"That is a fine sentiment and used to be the real quotation. But we are not so sure about it now.
"Prior to the Federal dole system,
both in the United States and in all other countries in which it has been practiced, people generally preferred to earn what they had.
"At the beginning of the policy in this country most unemployed needy people resented charity, protesting that it was lucrative employment and not dole they wanted. Work for all could not be provided under the universal economic and industrial depression that prevailed.
"Part-time work, the out-and-out dole, and other forms of Federal assistance were offered. Many were forced to accept, and with thousands it became a habit. It was no longer a humiliation to accept charity.
"The result in the United States,
as elsewhere, has been that countless thousands have come to depend on charity or a dole, much to the discredit of such people and to the nation."—Industrial News Review.

REAL JOB MAKERS.

The nation's private electric utilities are almost invariably leaders in developing and building the communities they serve.
A large representative utility,
operating in several thousand towns and cities, has recently issued a pamphlet concerning its efforts to attract industries to its area. The utility keeps records of all floor space in its communities available for industrial purposes, and of all acreage suitable for plant construction. Without obligation, it will make particularized surveys for interested industries, and supply complete information about labor, transportation, raw materials, markets, taxes and other subjects of interest to manufacturers.
The results of this work have been remarkable. In the past five years—
three of which were during the worst of the depression—1,073 concerns
employing almost 40,000 workers, have become established in the utility's area as a direct consequence of its community-building program.
The rural area has been particularly benefited, inasmuch as a number of these concerns have removed from congested cities to small towns or semi-rural locations.
Many utilities carry on similar programs. Factories are built, tax-paying properties are created, men are employed, local purchasing power is increased, and opportunity is made for persons to start other local businesses. As the records prove, progressive electric utilities are among the greatest community builders.

STOP IT WITH Alka-Seltzer

Does Headache "slow you down?" You are a rare exception if it does not.

One or two tablets of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a pleasant alkalizing solution that usually brings relief in just a few minutes.

ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for:

Gas on Stomach, "Morning
After", Acid Indigestion,
Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyperacidity.

GOOD COFFEE KEEPS HUSBANDS HAPPY

Housewives Prefer Vacuum Packed Coffee for Freshness.

All Gold Coffee in New Vacuum Packed Tin.

The modern young housewife knows that there's nothing that will keep hubby in a more cheerful mood
than a cup of steaming hot, or a glass of ice cold coffee at every meal.

The stimulating goodness of really fresh coffee goes a long way toward pepping up tired bodies and uplifting spirits that are down in the dumps.
And really fresh coffee, of course,
means coffee that is vacuum packed
while the coffee is still roaster fresh.

Coffee drinkers in this territory can now enjoy All Gold Coffee at its peak of flavor, for All Gold is sealed in its red and gold tin by a new, super-vacuum process... sealed in just as it comes from the roaster...

while it is still warm. Thusly, when housewives buy a can of the super-vacuum-packed All Gold Coffee, they are securing coffee at its freshest, coffee that is scientifically blended
from the world's finest high-grown coffees... and roasted especially for Texas climate and Texas water conditions.

All Gold Coffee, in its new super-vacuum-packed tin is not roasted for universal use, but is roasted to suit
the particular tastes of Texas coffee drinkers. All Gold Coffee may be purchased from local grocers in one-pound and three-pound vacuum tins.
It comes to you in drip grind, and steel cut and will brew into a full-bodied, rich flavored beverage, no matter what brewing method you prefer.

Uvalde visited Miss Adeline Klieber
Sunday.

funeral of her sister, Mrs. Annie Pingenot.

In the death of Joe Ney of Medina County, that county and this section lost a well known and valuable citizen. Joe Ney had served as sheriff and tax collector for many years. During his term as sheriff, Medina County was recognized as one of the most peaceful counties in Texas and there were but few times during his long career that Joe Ney ever carried a gun. He will be greatly missed by his many friends throughout the state.

The Sabinal Sentinel reports that several people miraculously escaped death or serious injury when a small coupe containing five or six people crashed through the front of Tittsworth's grocery store at the north end of Center street. This is on Highway No. 90 as the turn is made into the main street at Sabinal. The Tittsworth store is at the corner on the west side of the turn. A similar accident happened at the turn on No. 90 at Castrovilla where a truck and auto ran into the Tschirhart home. No one was injured. Mr. Tschirhart, in order to protect himself against similar accidents, has built a strong barricade of green mesquite posts through which he has strung two steel cables. Looking at this barricade one is convinced that no more cars will crash into the Tschirhart home.

Mrs. Poerner of D'Hanis arrived several days ago to spend the fall and winter with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Prince of Dry Creek.

SAN ANTONIO LIVESTOCK.

Monday, August 30, 1937.
(Federal-State Market News Serv.)
Cattle receipts, 900 head; calves

1,500, for the San Antonio livestock market Monday. Continued drying ranges are forcing large supplies of unfinished cattle to market. The calf market Monday was very active on early rounds to packers and shippers, and price levels are steady to strong as compared with last week's close. Cows are uneven with medium kinds weak, spots lower. Other classes sold about steady.

Slaughter steers and yearlings were scarce. Truck lot of plain 881 pound steers $6.00, few to $6.50. Yearlings cashed at $6.75 and down. Medium to good grass calves sold mostly at $6.00 to $7.50, few above; plain grass kinds sold down to $4.50 with culls mostly at $4.00 to $4.50. Beef cows cashed mostly at $4.00 to $5.25 with fat kinds up to $6.50, mostly to shippers. Low cutter and cutter cows sold down to $3.00, few "snells" below. Bulls were draggy, mostly $5.00 and down. Stocker steers cashed at $6.50 and down. Stocker calves and yearlings mostly $6.75 and down, few steer calves to $7.00 and above.

Hogs, 900 head. The early market was fairly active with price levels opening steady with last week on liberal supplies but later sales broke around 25 cents. An early top of $10.25 was paid by all interests, later dropping to $10.00 for good to choice 180 to 250 pound butchers. Other weights and grades shared in the weakness. Best 160 to 180 pound offerings mostly $9.75 to $10.00; 140 to 160 pounds, $9.00 to $9.75; 250 to 300 pounds, $9.50 to $10.00. Packing sows mostly $8.25 and down, few above early. Stocker pigs mostly $7.50 to $8.00.

Not enough sheep or goats were on offer to establish a market.

Market closed Saturday, September 4, in observance of

JOE PENNER HEADS MUSICAL EXTRAVAGANZA.

"New Faces of 1937", musical extravaganza which shows at the Colonial Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, boasts a wide variety of entertainment and a star-studded cast. Joe Penner, Milton Berle, Parkyakarkus, Harriet Hilliard, William Brady, Jerome Cowan and Thelma Leeds compose the cast. Story concerns Cowan's attempt to produce a flop show with Miss Hilliard's money so he can pocket the proceeds. Inevitably, with the aid of Penner and other acts, the show turns out to be a hit and Miss Hilliard and the production's author find romance.

OCTOBER CCC ENROLLMENT.

A call for approximately 11,000 white and 1,200 colored boys to be enrolled into the Civilian Conservation Corps during October has been issued by Adam R. Johnson, Director of the Texas Relief Commission, to the various County Welfare Boards.

This number far exceeds any former enrollment and will give almost all boys in the State an opportunity to enroll if they are unemployed, 17 to 23 years of age, in need, and whose parents or themselves, due to financial limitations, are not in a position to secure or provide comparable training. Full strength of the Texas quota is 16,000 white and 1,700 colored, and due to discharge of enrollees reaching the age of 24 and/or completion of the maximum enrollment of two years, replacements will be necessary.

Heretofore, rules did not allow boys from other than the groups receiving or eligible to receive public assistance to be accepted, but these have been modified. Such boys who have no dependents may allow two-thirds of their pay to remain on deposit and upon discharge, or completion of their enrollment, receive the full accrued amount. Where there are dependents, an allotment will be made each month direct.

Over $500,000.00 each month is brought to Texas through these allotment checks to dependents, which materially relieves the burden that would otherwise be carried by the communities.

C. J. SWEENEY,
Supervisor CCC Selection.

MORE WORK ASSIGNED TO LOCAL R. A. STAFF.

County representatives of the Resettlement Administration will have larger responsibilities in the future, it was announced by C. W. Price, county farm supervisor, upon his return from a week's conference at College Station.

"We were informed by national headquarters that Washington and Dallas offices will shift more and more work to the local offices," the supervisor said. "Recent drastic reduction in personnel at national and regional headquarters is expected to be only the beginning. But no reductions are expected in the county offices."

At least one-half of the farm families in this county receiving rural rehabilitation aid must be "graduated" within the next few years, to an independent and self-supporting place in the community, the local supervisor said. As these "graduates" go out, their places are to be taken by new farm families drawn from the bottom of the pile, who are in turn to be helped up the ladder.

Mr. Price served on the committee on family record-keeping. This committee recommended that every rehabilitation family keep records that will show progress from year to year. A new type of record was urged, to show a comparison of different families, each family being given a rating.

The local home management supervisor, Myrtle K. Montgomery, served on the committee on Farm Debt Adjustment.

GUY KIBBEE IN DETECTIVE ROLE.

Guy Kibbee creates a new and interesting screen sleuth for Republic in his characterization of Octavus Roy Cohen's hay-seed detective. "Jim Harvey—Detective" shows at the Colonial Theatre Monday and Tuesday night. Tom Brown and Lucie Kaye handle the romantic assignment and Edward Brophy and Ed Gargan share comic honors. Kibbee, a typical small town detective, is called in on a piece of theft and murder case involving Brown and Miss Kaye, which he solves with ease.

CARD OF THANKS.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. Geo. Bohmfalk Tuesday were Rev. C. F. Bohmfalk of Welsh, La.; Rev. and Mrs. Walter Froehner of Hilda, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Jordan of Mason, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Tolle, Cost, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Klein, Sabinal; Mrs. Ed. Oefinger, all of San Antonio. There may be others whose names we failed to get.

Mr. L. Wright, Field Agent for the Portland Cement Association, with headquarters in the Norwood Building, Austin, was here Tuesday on business and paid our office an appreciated call. Mr. Wright's business requires of him a careful study of roads in all their phases, including their effect on communities, and he thinks Hondo should be exerting every effort possible towards securing the building of Highway 173, "From the hills to deep water". Completion of the Highway would put Hondo on an international highway from the Canadian border almost direct to the deep water port at Corpus Christi, and assure Hondo a definite and permanent place on the map.

Hondo's local architect, Jos. Palie, has been awarded the contract to draw the plans and supervise the construction of a commodious church building for the First Baptist church congregation at Carrizo Springs. The building will be of brick and stone and the auditorium will be approximately 50x100 feet in dimension. There will be a basement, Sunday school rooms, class rooms, cloak rooms, etc. A unique feature will be an elevated baptismal font in the rear of the pulpit and choir, with a painting of the baptismal scene at the river Jordan forming the background of the setting. As Mr. Polle describes the work the Carrizo Springs Baptists will have a church house of which to be proud.

The Owlette Club met Wednesday at the home of Frances Ruth Fly. Several things were discussed and planned. Refreshments of tuna and pimiento cheese sandwiches, cookies and iced tea were served to Betty Jean Merriman, Sis Meyer, Evelyn Ruth Dawson, Billie Merritt, Helen Burgin, Susie Muennink, Dorothy Falkner, a guest, and Frances Ruth Fly.

Ferdinand Boehme, stockman from Mico, was down from the Lake country Monday on business and while here paid our office a business call. Mr. Boehme has just completed the shearing of his angoras, and clipped an average of two pounds of hair from his spring kids. A six months' clip from his mature goats produced 3½ pounds average per animal. With kid hair bringing seventy cents and mature goat hair bringing sixty cents, goat men are sitting pretty. The next shearing of the flocks, Mr. Boehme said, will be about the end of next February.

Why the difference in the choice of professions? Twins have much in common, likes and dislikes, speech, gestures, attitudes, manners, toys, games, books, cats, drinks, pets, errands, jobs, even ailments and diseases, remedies and curatives they share pretty much alike. In the selection of a vocation they part ways quite often. What is the child guided by in such selection? Following the footsteps of the father? Only one fourth of the children are doing it, as fairly reliable statistics show. Is heredity at the bottom of it? To some extent, yet one type may produce 24 leading types and a few thousand sub-types, variants, mixtures in bodily and mental traits, as scientists claim to have figured out, which does not exclude those mysteriously shaping influences upon the child before he is born, implanting a special aptitude or inclination, be it for a military, literary, artistic career or for one of the hundreds of practical trades we know of. Yet the network of shaping influences after birth will mean more. Suggestive appeals swarm upon him every day from the words he hears, the tales and stories he reads, the trains, ships, cars he sees, the men at work in the factories, on the street, in the mines and fields he observes, plus the soldiers parading the streets or the daring aviators overhead, etc. Everything is real to him, nothing abstract; everything within his reach, his limits he does not know; everything leaves constructive or destructive impressions for his final choice. He may slip out of his desire of being a fairy prince, a smashing Popeye, a two-pistol Cassidy, a Joe Louis, a daring adventurer, an alert detective, a glittering general, a bombastic orator, a prancing millionaire, a powerful king, the sterner stuff of life is generally asserting itself, intelligence tests, an orientation course at school, a wider range of observation may have had a clarifying influence, but he will retain his God-given aptitudes and urges and native taste for this and that practical profession or for administrative, constructive, argumentative, scientific or artistic work. And this will force itself to the surface, in spite of social or financial handicaps. Have an eye and ear for the boy's questions, answers, interest, preferences, studies, activities, tests and attempts, a few failures will help along, watch, in particular, his enthusiasm and joy and satisfaction, or the reverse, (after all the boy must do the choosing), and see whether he'll be a "hunter" or a man for the "tents" and give him gangway. Just so the selection serves God and mankind.

Mrs. E. H. Hartman and her family have been deeply saddened by the passing of her mother, Mrs. George Bohmfalk. A long life, almost 75 years, was allotted to her, and she had endeared herself to many by her quiet, unassuming and gentle ways. The Lord was her Staff and Hope. We mourn with the mourning.

The Medina Hospital is a busy section these days, crowded beyond capacity with patients from far and near and with all the various ills that the human race is heir to. Where the heart is set right, the ways of the Lord are less hard to understand. At our last visit we found Mr. Hy. Loessberg there, coming out from an operation that, we hope, has relieved him from a painful ailment.

God willing, Sunday, September the 12th, is Confirmation Sunday with us. A class of 14 is ready to renew their baptismal pledge by personal confession and after lengthy and careful preparation. We append the names of the young people: Annadelle Boehle, Elsie Boehle, Gladys Breiten, Annie Brucks, Engeline Groff, Darwin Haby, Mabel Lindeburg, and John Hy. Boehle, Robert Groff, Elmer Hartmann, John W. Hartmann, Calvin Mangold, Milton Poehler and Melvin Schulte. They need your prayers in this world of temptations. The order of service: Examination at 9:30; confirmation service and the consecration of Confirmation at 10 A. M. We invite you.

An old friend and former pastor of this parish, the Rev. A. Beteit and family of Austin, are visiting with some of their friends here. We were glad to harbor them for a short while at the parsonage.

A round of visits was made at our shut-ins, Mrs. W. J. Saathoff, Mrs. W. Reitzer and Mother Loessberg, to bring them the comfort of the Word and prayer. Several members of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Joe Horn and Mrs. C. H. Fuos, accompanied the pastor and his wife.

Announcements for September the 5th: German service at 10; Sunday school at 9; English service at 8 P. M. "I love thy Zion, Lord." Do you?

Jap Aviator Shoots Ambassador to China . . . Congress Adjourns . . . Fails to Pass Most of 'Must' Legislation

A breathing spell! Members of the 75th congress, happy in adjournment, at last, file out of the Capitol in Washington.

Jap Airman Courts Fate

A JAPANESE army aviator precipitated the gravest international Far East crisis since the fighting began in Shanghai, and perhaps indeed since the Boxer rebellion, when he swooped down upon a Chinese road to pour machine gun bullets into an automobile flying the British Union Jack from its radiator.

One of the bullets pierced the body of Sir Hughie Natchbull-Hugessen, Great Britain's ambassador to China, as he sped in the car to attend a conference with British foreign service officials. The ambassador, a veteran of 30 years in the service, was rushed 50 miles to Country hospital where an operation was performed.

Sir Hughie was the highest ranking British official in China, where Great Britain has enormous interests at stake. He was attacked by a Japanese airplane which did not even have the right of a belligerent—since no war had been declared—while his conveyance was flying the British colors. The last comparable incident in China was the Boxer rebellion of 1900, when the German Ambassador von Kettler was shot and killed in Peiping.

Hooray! School Is Out!

EVEN if there were more than a few threats of "Wait'll I get you after school," the nation's lawmakers were happy as schoolboys at the end of the term, as the first session of the Seventy-fifth congress came to a close at last. The senators and representatives, fairly bogged down with months of wrangling, much of it futile, through the intolerable Washington summer, were glad of release, even if such release carried the implication that there might be a special session in October.

But the legislators left the Capitol in the realization that the session just ended will probably become known less for what it did than what it did not do.

Four out of five of President Roosevelt's major "must" measures it did not pass; the fifth it passed only with reservations which put a new complexion upon it.

Congress did not pass the wages and hours bill. After being passed by the senate in unacceptable form, with the understanding that it would be improved in the house, the bill was still buried with the house rules committee when the bell rang.

Congress did not pass the new crop control bill which includes Secretary Wallace's "ever-normal granary" project. It was agreed that this legislation be brought up during the first week of the January session or the special session.

It did not pass the President's desired legislation for re-organization of the executive department. It did vote the White House six new secretaries, though.

It did not pass the proposal to increase the membership of the Supreme court by six justices, who would apparently be selected with a view to insuring the constitutionality of New Deal measures. By a vote of 70 to 20 it permitted a substitute measure, which would have added the justices one at a time, to die a natural death in committee.

In addition to failing to enact this legislation demanded by the chief executive, congress defeated the Norris bill to create seven "little TVAs," and the crop insurance bill, proposing a revolving fund of $100,000,000. The senate failed to ratify the sanitary convention with Argentina, modifying the restrictions on imports of meat and live stock.

However, congress did: Pass the Wagner low-cost housing bill, but with restrictions on the unit cost which will, it is charged, make the program virtually unavailable for New York and other large cities which constitute the principal slum problems. The $526,000,000 measure was on the President's "must" list. Pass a sugar quota which may be vetoed by the President. He threatened to veto such a bill if it limited the output of Puerto Rico and Hawaii to 126,000 and 29,000 short tons annually, and it does just that.

Extend the neutrality law to prohibit the shipment of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerents or extension of credit to them.

Pass the Guffey act, creating a commission to fix prices and control the marketing of bituminous coal. Appropriate $1,500,000,000 for work relief in the current fiscal year.

Pass a bill to outlaw personal holding companies and other alleged means of tax evasion.

Passed a reform bill for the lower courts, designed to speed appeals to the Supreme court and permit the Department of Justice to intervene in cases involving the constitutionality of a statute.

Ratified the Buenos Aires "peace treaties," which include a consultative pact for common course of action when war anywhere threatens the American republics.

Extended the CCC three years. The President had asked that it be made permanent.

Passed a farm tenancy bill to help share croppers buy their own farms. This provides for the expenditure of $10,000,000 the first year, $25,000,000 the second year and $50,000,000 in succeeding years.

Railroad Strike Threatens

ONLY successful mediation by the United States government appeared as a chance to prevent a nation-wide strike of 350,000 railroad workers as railroad representatives flatly refused the 20 per cent pay increase demanded by the "big five" railroad brotherhoods in Chicago conference. The unions said their only recourse was to call out conductors, engineers, firemen, switchmen and trainmen.

Federal mediation would automatically postpone the strike 30 days. The national mediation board named Dr. William M. Leiserson, one of its members, to conduct hearings.

Railroads' financial condition precluded the granting of wage increases, said H. A. Enoch, chairman of the carriers' committee. The increase requested would add $116,000,000 a year to operating costs, of which $2,000,000 would be for extra social security taxes and $4,000,000 for extra retirement fund taxes, he said.

Planes Land Without Eyes

AT OAKLAND, CALIF., civilian and army fliers proved that air transport planes can now be landed under conditions which prevent the pilot from gaining the slightest glimpse of the ground. Using only a radio beam for "eyes," pilots made 100 perfect "blind" landings at the airport there with a Boeing 247-D plane, of the type now used on several of the nation's commercial air lines.

The cockpit windows were covered with metal screens to prevent their sneaking so much as a peek at the field. Many pilots flew the ship and, although some of them had never operated that type of plane before, not a single landing was made outside the 200-foot runway.

So successful were the tests, the bureau of air commerce, army, navy and commercial airlines representatives present agreed that the system would be adopted for the country as a whole. The system, which makes it possible to bring a ship safely to earth, even through snow, rain, fog or dust, was called by authorities the most dramatic thing of its kind since the first flight of the Wright brothers.

Andrew W. Mellon Is Dead

ANDREW W. MELLON, reputedly one of the four richest men in the United States and secretary of the treasury in three cabinets, died of uremia and bronchial pneumonia at the home of his son-in-law at Southampton, N. Y. He was eighty-two years old.

Shortly before his death he had fulfilled the ambition of his life by giving to the nation what he termed the "nucleus" of one of the finest art collections in the world. The collection he gave was valued at $50,000,000. Excavation is now under way for a $15,000,000 building to house the collection in Washington.

Japanese Turn Tide

SUCCESSING in landing thousands of reinforcements from its transport ships, the Japanese appeared ready to turn the tide of ground battle in the undeclared war in China, while their navy threw a blockade around 800 miles of the Chinese seacoast from Shanghai nearly to Canton, in South China. Only at terrific cost were the reinforcements getting ashore. Many entire landing parties were blown to bits as they attempted to take shore positions under a blaze of machine gun fire and in the face of artillery shells and land mine explosions.

More than a quarter of a million men were reported engaged in the fighting along a front stretching from Shanghai northwestward to Tientsin, Peiping, Nankow and Changpei, deep in Chahar province and north to the Great Wall.

At the northern end of the front the pro-Japanese Mongol troops of Prince Teh battled combined Chinese regular and communist armies. Japanese reported the capture of Kalgan, capital of Chahar, shutting off Chinese communication with Mongolia, while the routed Chinese troops fled to the south. Japanese forces broke through the stubborn Chinese defenses at Nankow pass and penetrated the Great Wall. They were reported to have succeeded in escaping narrowly a strategic Chinese maneuver which would have trapped 30,000 Japanese troops south and west of Peiping. Chinese positions south of Peiping were dominated by the well-equipped, well-trained and mechanized Japanese army, which captured the commanding high land.

But despite all this activity to the north it was upon Shanghai that the full horror of the war descended. The international settlement was little safer than any of the rest of the great port, except, perhaps, the native district of Chapei, which was gutted by flames and torn by bombs and shells. After two weeks of fighting in Shanghai, there were reported to be 5,160 casualties in the international settlement and the French concession, including 1,760 fatalities.

Guffey's Unholy Three

SINCE the fight on the President's court plan began in the senate, it has become more and more obvious that a serious split impends in the Democratic party ranks. It was not a secret that certain of the senators and representatives were marked for extinction, fish fries and harmony dinners notwithstanding. But few expected the bombshell that broke when Sen. Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania, in a radio speech just before the end of the session, openly named Senators O'Mahoney of Texas, Burke of Nebraska and Wheeler of Montana as senators who would not return to Washington after the next elections.

Burke summed up reply of the three men attacked when he said that if Guffey's statement were true "we might just as well forget about Jefferson Island and harmony dinners and get ready for a real battle." Wheeler, on the senate floor, said that if the "Democratic bosses . . . want to drive us out of the Democratic party they will not have any difficulty in doing so. I say to you (Guffey) that if you nominate your governor of Pennsylvania or yourself for President of the United States, you will not have to drive us out."

Admiral Yarnell Protests

UNCLE SAM was brought nearer than ever to the unofficial war in North China when a shell exploded on the deck of the Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, killing Freddie John Falgout, a seaman, and wounding 18 others of the crew. The ship was lying at anchor in the Whangpoo river in the heart of the International Settlement of Shanghai. It was impossible to determine whether the shell had been fired by the Chinese or Japanese.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the fleet, warned the governments of both nations against shellfire over American and foreign warships. The President and the State department were inclined to leave diplomatic overtures to the military, naval and diplomatic officers in China. The President declared that under the circumstances accidents such as the one which beset the Augusta were bound to occur.

Santander Falls to Franco

SPAIN'S thirteen-month-old civil war drew one step nearer to a close as Gen. Francisco Franco's army captured the city of Santander, last important government outpost on the northern coast. As the insurgent troops filed in to occupy the city, it was apparent that the remaining government army of 50,000 men was trapped in the hills southeast of the city in an area 15 miles square. Probably they were not even aware that Santander's "iron ring" had broken.

During the last of the twelve days of Franco's furious thrusts, the city's streets had run red with the blood of anarchists' victims, as thirst, hunger and terrorism crazed the populace. By the thousands, civilians were fleeing by sea—the only way to France. Every available craft was put into service; hundreds even attempted a getaway in rowboats, canoes, dories and other small craft, some of them using improvised sails made from sheets.

On Tiptoe

By Stewart Edward White

"Probably," agreed Grimstead, "but even at that he's got something. That box isn't any larger than a starting battery. We'll have to look into it a little. A battery as compact as that will drive others off the market."

Davenport put everybody to work, after a quick meal had been improvised and eaten, so that by mid-afternoon a comfortable and convenient camp had come into existence. The tent had been moved a short distance into a circle of small redwood trees that stood about it to form a stockade, and the ground had been leveled free from hummocks. The cook fire had its proper crevice within which to function; and a wide space had been scooped for the friendship fire. After all else was finished, and while the others were having a fine puttery time bestowing their personal effects, Davenport constructed with his ingenious and comfortable backs against which to lean while sprawled out before the blaze. Then he departed with Simmins and Rapsallion in search of fuel.

By the time these things were all finished the sun once more was slanting from the west. Simmins, panic-stricken, claimed total ignorance of camp cookery.

"I'll do it," stated Davenport briefly. "You'll do the dishes, run the errands, get the water and carry in the wood. I'll chop the wood." He looked around at the others. "That's the only thing I want you all to leave strictly alone—the ax. I'll do all the ax work myself."

"Mr. Gardiner and papa both can use an ax," Burton pointed out. "They're regular lumber jacks. They won't cut off a foot."

"I do not doubt it," agreed Davenport, "but if that's the case, they understand. It's too far to a grindstone. Either a man wants to be entirely responsible for his edge and do all the chopping; or else do none of it."

"I'm perfectly willing," agreed Gardiner disdainfully. "Hard work is out of my line."

Davenport grinned. "Well, I imagine it's going to be to everybody's line for a while. How do you think we're going to get those cars out of here and into the road? We've got to build a road, not only across the meadow but around that fallen tree. There's going to be quite a little exercise involved in that, I'm thinking; and everybody will have to help."

"What fun!" cried Burton.

"It is fun," agreed Davenport, "to be up against things and work out by your own ingenuity."

"How will we go at it?"

"Well, first we'll cut poles for a corduroy over the soft ground."

"You have exclusive use of the ax, I believe," drawled Gardiner.

"The poles must be trimmed with the hatchet and then carried or dragged into place," continued Davenport; only an aggravated sweetness of tone indicating this as a reply to Gardiner's comment. "Then when we're across the meadow, we'll simply clear a right-of-way through the brush, and corduroy where we need it. It won't be much of a road, but it will get us out. We will start tomorrow morning."

"It'll be a lot simpler to have Simmins hike out as soon as the road dries a little and bring in a force of men," growled Gardiner.

"Yes, that can be done," agreed Davenport. Simmins would walk twenty miles—good hard miles that would take him all day—and he'd get to Tecolote. Tecolote has a general store and post office; a boarding house or hotel; and the public garage. It is situated on the cross roads that go from Sequel to Morro, on the coast. There are three small houses in patches of garden."

The young man paused to light his pipe.

"Simmins arrives, footsore and weary—I believe that's the way they always arrive—and, like a good soldier, he thinks first of duty and goes to the garage. He will find it a good-size affair of corrugated iron with a dirt floor containing about six disreputable looking cars, a bewildering mess of junk iron, a forge, an anvil, a work bench, and a tall, fat, profane man. There may be one or two others present—I don't know—but the tall, fat, profane man will be the one to whom Simmins will unfold his moving tale. And, believe me, before the tall, fat and profane man—whose name is Tom—gets through with him, he will have all of the aforesaid moving tale! Simmins may start with the full intention of luring him out by telling him merely of a towing job; but before he has been ten minutes among those present he will have conveyed an accurate picture of our situation and personnel. I'm not arguing about this! I'm telling you. When he quite understands, Tom will tower over Simmins and discourse as follows: No not as follows; I forgot Miss Grimstead's presence."

"Don't mind me," urged Burton. "I've been a debutante and am used to a rough life."

"No. Tom is as profane as he is tall and fat. But he will discourse approximately as follows:

"You poor attenuated simulacrum of the manly virtues," he will say, "why in the abode of the preordained condemned phantasmagoria of mediaeval religious belief don't you bring in your own car? Are you all afflicted with infantile paralysis? Are you victims of ossification of the cranial cavity? Why do you come bothering me?"

"And then Tom will probably end by telling Simmins of a good winter resort and advising him to proceed thither without delay."

"That's all right," said Grimstead, who was laughing heartily, "but Simmins would be authorized to offer any pay whatever within reason—money no-object idea."

"Tom—regrettable as it may be—is little swayed by thoughts of pelf when he has his dander up. And Tom's dander is positively self-rising when he envisions a—pardon me, but the words are his—grown-up he-man with out guts enough to help himself. At such times the glitter of gold is nothing in Tom's life."

"I think Mr. Grimstead's name would have some weight, even with such a person as you describe," said Gardiner with quiet confidence.

Davenport threw back his head and laughed.

"Following Simmins' ill-received offer of bribery," he continued to visualize his imaginary scene, "he would adduce the consideration just referred to. 'Grimstead,' he would roar, 'is it that old lying, sneaking, bull-dozing, land-grabbing, robbing usurper of the public domain? I wouldn't go an inch to pull him out of h—!' and then he'd throw Simmins out on his neck."

Grimstead's bushy eyebrows had drawn together and his eyes flashed lightning.

"You are insulting, young man," he warned.

"Not I," replied Davenport cheerfully. "I'm just telling you what Tom would say. I know him and his methods pretty well. Point is, the old cuss would work all night in a rain-

"There Must Be Others Available," Growled Grimstead, Still Ruffled.

storm to get us out if we were helpless, but wouldn't raise his hand to do anything we could do ourselves."

"There must be others available," growled Grimstead, still ruffled.

"No; there aren't," replied Davenport, dropping his extravagant manner; "not near enough to be available, within reason. It's much simpler to do it ourselves. It's not a serious job."

Grimstead happened to look aside at this moment to see Gardiner glance at his long, well-kept hands. A sardonic gleam crossed his eyes.

"You're right, Davenport," he said, "and it will be fun."

CHAPTER VI

"Well, this is something like!" cried Grimstead as he lowered himself to a cushion of aromatic boughs at just the right distance from a leaping fire. He was well-fed and warm and dry, and pleasantly tired after the mild exercise he had been forced to take. "Gardiner, I don't know why we didn't think of this ourselves, before we got our noses rubbed in it." He glanced about the scene with satisfaction. The coals of the cooking fire glowed tidily beneath a kettle of beans—a sensible, well-behaved little fire that one could work about without scorching. Utensils hung handily from wooden pegs driven into the soft bark of a tree between the trunks of the trees the tent, within which Burton was moving around, could be seen glowing like a moon or a huge, frosted lantern. Rapsallion slumbered ridiculously near the fire. Punketty-Snivvies, who was a clever little devil in spite of all, having in the course of a single day realized his fall from his high estate, and having become undemanding and unobtrusive, sat a few paces away adoring Rapsallion. He had essayed in turn arrogance, yapping insult, and an ingratiating playfulness, to none of which had the terrier paid the smallest attention. Punketty-Snivvies might have been made of thin air. So at last Punketty-Snivvies became a hero worshiper. He followed Rapsallion slavishly about, trying in a puny, futile fashion to copy his raffish rough and ready manners, hoping nightly for some attention; and when, as now, the marvel slept, Punketty-Snivvies deprived himself of needed sleep to sit, a silver or imbecile pink tongue showing, worshipping with humble heart. Thus did Punketty-Snivvies at last take the initial steps of the Climb; and acquire his first Merit.

Simmins, on the other side, was doing the same thing toward his new hero, though he did not stick out his tongue.

"Young man," began Grimstead in a large paternal manner, blowing the first cloud from his cigar, "where is your shop? San Rafael, did you say?"

"My shop?—oh, Sausalito," replied Davenport.

"Do a pretty good business?"

"It makes me a living."

"I suppose you could use a little more."

"Who couldn't?"

"A little additional capital might enable you to expand to advantage."

"Additional capital," said Davenport unexpectedly, with a grin, "would enable me to expand an inch."

"But you just said you could use more money."

"That's different."

"I don't see how it's different," said Grimstead a little impatiently, "but it doesn't matter. I like your style, young man. You're a live wire, and it's a principle of mine to connect with live wires. It crossed my mind that you needed a little—buy in a shop, you understand. Of course on investigation—"

"So you are interested in my battery, after all," said Davenport. Grimstead stared at him, then threw back his head and laughed.

"Keno!" he acknowledged, "at least I'm interested in what you say about your battery. The state of Missouri isn't big enough to hold me when it comes to what you claim for it. I shrewdly suspect that in that you're trying to spoof me, as Willie Smeed would say. But it's obvious you've come from somewhere, and it's obvious that little battery brought you. Even if it's only five or ten miles, and you expect to get home again, you've got something big."

"Of course," Davenport pointed out, "I haven't tried to sell you anything, nor make you believe anything. And I don't suppose, in view of your technical knowledge, I would have any right to resent your doubting my word. Nevertheless, I repeat that with that battery as my sole motive power I have driven about eleven hundred miles."

"Without recharging?" demanded Gardiner.

Health and Home

ICED DRINKS IN THE SUMMER

On a warm and sultry summer day, there is nothing more refreshing to the mind and to the body than an iced drink. Of course, when such drinks are being used, moderation should be practiced, because if taken in excess or too rapidly, they are liable to be injurious to the stomach. However, when taken in a sensible manner, they are refreshing and beneficial to the fatigued. In the manufacture of these drinks, care should be taken to avoid any combination that may be indigestible or hard to assimilate. The drink should be consumed in a slow and leisurely manner.

The greatest danger present in the use of iced drinks is the one that involves the use of ingredients that are possibly impure or contaminated in any way. This is very liable to happen if the juices that are used are allowed to stand until they become soured and unfit for use, or if the milk or other ingredient used is not strictly fresh. The predisposition of milk to spoil quickly at summer temperatures makes it oftentimes necessary to use evaporated milk, which after all is just pure fresh milk with more than half the water taken away. It is sterile and, therefore, always safe. For use in iced drinks, it is ideal.

Following are several formulas used in the manufacture of iced beverages. If these formulas are followed religiously, the results will be found to be very satisfactory.

Chocolate Malted Milk.
1 cup evaporated milk 2 teaspoonfuls cocoa
1 cup water 2 teaspoonfuls malted milk
Mix cocoa with water until syrup is obtained. Put all ingredients in Mason jar and shake thoroughly and serve with chilled ice.

Milk Punch.
1 cup evaporated milk 2 tbsp. orange juice
Sugar to suit ¼ cup water
Small stick cinnamon
1 cup tea ½ cup fruit juice (currant or berry preferred)
2 tbsp. lemon juice
Boil slowly the cinnamon, a lemon rind and orange rind in water for ten minutes. Strain and when cool add the other ingredients. Place in a Mason fruit jar and shake well. Serve in tall glasses with chopped ice.

Egg Nog.
1 egg 1½ tbsp. powdered sugar
Pinch salt 2 tbsp. fruit juice
½ cup cold evaporated milk Nutmeg gratings
½ cup ice water
Add salt to egg white and beat to a stiff froth. Add the sugar, the well beaten yolk of the egg and the juice and nutmeg. Fill glass with milk and cold water. Sprinkle top with chopped nuts.

ADVENTURE IS COMING IN THE AMERICAN BOY.

Readers who like adventure and the lure of far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco water-front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of pseudo-science, and of a feud aboard a plunging, rolling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a transport plane blaring over jungled Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young ex-Mountie as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Tierney, the pie-eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guardsman, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging from how to run a broken field to how to be correct in a ballroom!

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

The group enjoyed barbecue and other refreshments at noon, and throughout the day old acquaintances were renewed and new ones were formed.

HENRY REILY PASSES.

A native of D'Hanis and resident of Sabinal was Henry William Reily, who died at the Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio on Tuesday morning, August 31, 1937, at the age of 69. His death came after one month of intense suffering caused by blood poisoning resulting from a slight cut.

Born at Fort Lincoln on May 21, 1868, deceased was reared in this community, and, while yet a young man, entered the mercantile business at Sabinal. That town has been his home for forty-seven years.

In 1893 he was married to Miss Willie Lyell. The widow survives him, as do their six children, namely: Mrs. Mollie Lockhart of San Antonio, Major Harold H. Reily, U. S. A., of Middletown, Penn., Mrs. T. M. Woodley of Sabinal, Dr. William A. Reily of San Antonio, R. Farris Reily of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Creston Taylor of Luling. Other survivors are two brothers, Joe Reily of Sabinal and Jacob Reily of Hondo; five sisters, Mrs. A. G. Davenport of San Antonio, Mrs. Joe Mey of Hondo, Mrs. Joe Carle, Mrs. Louis Carle, and Mrs. Henry C. Rothe of D'Hanis; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the home at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, and burial took place in the Sabinal cemetery. Rev. R. A. Mainord of the Christian Church officiated. The pall-bearers were O. L. McCauley, Clarence Crane, Travis Barrington, Ross Kennedy, Leon Heard, and Fred Peters.

Mr. Reily was loved and admired by a large number of relatives and friends here, many of whom went to Sabinal to be present at the funeral.

Finger, and among guests, Miss Lucy Rothe, Miss Ethel Rothe, Miss high and others present were Mesdames Henry Biry, Charles Langfeld, Emma Rothe, Herman Ney, Ferd Rock, Eric Rothe, John Rieber, Ben Koch, and Reily Carle, Misses Cornelia Koch and Sara Rothe. Delicious cake and ice cream were served.

GRAFF REUNION.

The descendants of Louis Graff, Sr., gathered at Wernette's Garden in a reunion on August 29, 1937. A pleasant day of joyful association and friendship was theirs. Nearly all were present. A few, however, could not attend because of time and distance. At noon a basket lunch was served. During the afternoon a short program of poems, musical selections, singing, quartettes and tap-dancing was rendered, followed by a business session. The assembly voted to have a reunion next year. The committee selected Wernette's Garden for the first reunion because it was the original home of Mr. Graff and his pioneering and freighting friends. Some of his younger friends still live there, namely: Joe and Ed. Tschirhart, Henry Vonflie, and others.

A large sketch of the relationship was exhibited in the form of houses in oil painting, dating from 1826 to 1937.

The committee is grateful for all the numbers rendered, which was by voluntary action, and to Mr. Julius Jagge and Mr. Harry Hans for their kindness and assistance during the day.

A sketch of Mr. Graff is as follows:

In 1826, on April 9, there was born to Friedrich Graff and wife, nee Elizabeth Haus, a son who was named Louis, in New-freistadt Bishofheim Groscherzogthum Pade on the Rhine in Germany. Herr Friedrich Graff was by trade a stone mason. Louis Graff, however, was apprenticed and learned in the butcher profession. Louis was a precocious boy. He loved adventure and new experiences. The love for greater freedom and opportunities was continuously welling up in his soul. He realized that opportunities were limited under his then condition. He had heard and read of the new world and its offers. This set his emotions afire, not altogether for selfish reasons but with foresight for the welfare of his offspring, for which we should rejoice. His impulses were rekindled when he heard the real story from the lips of his employer, Louis Huth, who had visited the new world as Henry Castro's agent. Mr. Graff was a young man of only 18 years at this time, but he determined to see the new world, even over the protests of his beloved mother, of whom is said that she never fully recovered for want of her son, whom she never saw after he left. Her dying words were faint murmurs of calling: "Louis! If Louis were only here."

In company with Castro colonists embarked on the ship Louis Philippe, they set out from Antwerp to Galveston, thence to Port Lavaca. He stayed at Port Lavaca for a while, then with the rest of the colonists he went to San Antonio. Here he toiled as a poor laborer, his diary showing that he hauled sand for a man by the name of Schmidt, and during the same time built one of the first, if not the first, flat-rock sidewalks of San Antonio. Then he accompanied Louis Huth, his former employer of the fatherland, to transport colonists from Port Lavaca to San Antonio. Others assisted during these drives, among whom were one Schneider, Chas. de Montel, the surveyor, Weber, etc. One named Weber died from fever on the prairies near Cibola and was buried under rocks, as tools for digging were not available. Ziliac Rihm, who was some distance in back of the main train, was killed by Indians. His oxen were also killed and his wagon burned. This was the first of the colonists who were killed by Indians. Sept. 1, 1844, Mr. Graff left San Antonio with Henry Castro and founded Castroville on the Medina River, on the 2nd day of Sept., 1844. The colony consisted of 10 Germans and 36 Frenchmen. He was the last survivor of the original colonists.

In 1845, he joined the Texas Rangers under the Lone Star State flag and in the same year was enrolled on the sand hill at Castroville (Muehleberg) in Capt. John Conner's company under General Taylor for the Mexican war, left for Rio Grande, went to Mier, captured it, then to Cervala. As they moved to Cervala they met about 300 teamsters. He made friends with one of the men in particular. This man was minus one thumb which helped to identify him later. As the teamsters resumed their journey and the rangers theirs, his friend bid goodbye and remarked, "Well, Louis, I hope we'll meet again." Soon after their departure gun reports were heard. Upon investigation the 300 teamsters were found slain by Mexican bandits, oxen were killed and wagons robbed and burned. He found his friend, badly mutilated and only possible to identify him by his hand that was thumbless. From Cervala they went to Catrigo and then to Monterrey. By this time Indians were harassing Texas colonists and he was recalled to do Indian scouting during the year of 1847. His encounters with Indians are not clearly recalled by survivors. In 1847, among other colonists whom Mr. Graff brought during that year to Castroville was a young lady of 22 years of age, by the name of Barbara Bartz, born in 1825 in Alsace, Germany. Mr. Graff's acquaintance with Miss Bartz soon led to marriage, Nov. 2, 1847; Father Dubuis officiated.

They first lived in Castroville, later on the old Cagnon place on east banks of the Medina. It was during this time that Mr. Graff conducted a ferry boat to carry freighters across the Medina river. They then moved to Sauz. During this time he was hauling freight with ox-wagon from Port Lavaca, Indianola, Powder Horn, and various other places of Mexico. Many great-arresting experiences he witnessed during these trips. Life was constantly endangered by Indians and Mexican bandits, oxen suffered for want of water and food, and he suffered the hardships of glowing sun and bitter blizzards and the lonesomeness of the slow-moving freight wagon. The union was blessed by seven children, five boys and two girls. Carl and Joseph died during infancy. Charles, Louis, and Emil, deceased respectively Dec. 9, 1934, Dec. 13, 1921, and Oct. 20, 1916; the two girls, Emily (Mrs.

George Bendele) deceased Feb. 2, 1895, and Lena (Mrs. C. L. Dwyer), deceased July 30, 1902.

Mr. Graff realized the dangers of his freighting life and realizing should he be taken away, that his wife and five children would be destitute, he concluded to quit freighting and live with his family. It was at this time that freighting was a prosperous business and ranching a failure in price and range. Then he traded with Joe Tschirhart, then a young man, for his entire brand, JIE, about 300 to 400 head, for his freight wagon and six yoke of oxen. Later he moved his headquarters to the northeast side of Hondo bridge and had a store and freighters' quarters in connection with his ranching. It was during this time that the lumber mill was wrecked by the raging Hondo Creek. Later he moved within two miles east of Hondo, the present home of Frank Graff. Here he resumed his ranching and also did farming until death in 1908, Dec. 23, separated him and his wife by three years. Interments were made at the family cemetery, Rev. A. Falkenberg officiating.

An old clipping states, "Mr. Graff never gave up his adventurous spirit and enthusiasm. Throughout his sojourn he continuously labored and toiled to conquer the prairies of his new world. He saw Medina County grow from wilderness full of dangers to a densely settled, prosperous and peaceful county. . . and with other pioneering friends had to undergo many hardships."

NUECES RIVER SURVEY MADE.

Inspection of projects in the vicinity of Uvalde had been completed Tuesday by C. S. Fowler, president of the Nueces river conservation and reclamation program.

Fowler, who was to return to San Antonio Tuesday afternoon, made the inspection Monday with F. W. Pulliam, member of the executive board, and the Uvalde board of directors. The group visited the upper Nueces, West Fork, the Laguna, Montell and Tom Nunn Hill projects.

A survey of the area at Seco, Sabinal, Frio and Dry Frio has been begun by I. H. Patty, associate engineer, and F. T. Johnson, engineer and geologist from the board of army engineers at Galveston, Fowler announced.

Fowler said that money had been appropriated by the war department for the Nueces project survey so that plans for flood control, estimates of cost and other details could be submitted at the next session of congress for a full appropriation.—San Antonio Light.

To our friends:
We wish to express our thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness during the illness and death of our loved one, Mrs. Tom McClaugherty, and to gratefully acknowledge the many expressions of sympathy and the beautiful floral offerings. These are all a source of comfort to us in our bereavement and we pray God's blessings upon each and every one.
